Visual Memory of the Riga Ghetto: Between Archive and Reconstruction

Ekaterina Vikulina (Potsdam Universität - Museum of the Riga Ghetto and Holocaust in Latvia)

This paper examines how the Holocaust in Latvia, particularly the Riga Ghetto, is represented through visual media. It analyzes archival photos, films, and eyewitness drawings to explore how narratives about the catastrophe are shaped. Special attention is given to the gap between historical documentation and mediated memory in Latvian visual culture, with a particular focus on the use of historical photographs in museum practices.

Ekaterina Vikulina is Head of Culture and Research at the Museum of the Riga Ghetto and Holocaust in Latvia and a Visiting Researcher at the University of Potsdam. She holds a PhD in Cultural Studies and an MA in Art History. She teaches courses in media, and her research focuses on visual culture, historical photography, and memory studies.
